• Stress – Stress is a response to a stimulus. It is a state of mind that is characterized by a feeling of tension or pressure. Stress is a natural part of life, but it can become a problem if it is not managed properly. Stress can lead to a variety of health problems, including heart disease, high blood pressure, and depression. Stress can also affect your ability to think clearly and make decisions. There are many ways to manage stress, including exercise, meditation, and talking to a therapist. It is important to find a way to manage stress that works for you.

1. A 40-yr-old male with a 10-yr history of rheumatoid arthritis (RA) presents with a 2-week history of low-grade fever, weight loss, and fatigue. He has been on chronic low-dose prednisone (5 mg daily) for the past 5 years. Physical examination reveals mild joint swelling and no other abnormalities. Laboratory studies show hemoglobin 10 g/dL, hematocrit 30%, and erythrocyte sedimentation rate (ESR) 45 mm/hr. Which of the following is the most likely cause of his anemia?

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a review of the literature on the topic. It starts with a general overview of the field, followed by a more detailed discussion of the specific issues raised in the title. The author then presents his own findings, which are based on a series of experiments. Finally, he discusses the implications of his results and offers some suggestions for further research.
